VOLSTEAD LAW, BOBBED HAIR, SUBJECT TALK

Judge Landis Says They Form Dinner Conversations

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 2.—Kenasaw M. Landis, former federal judge at Chicago and now czar of baseball was called today in the senate Daugherty investigation to tell of the sentence and the pardon of Philip Grossman, a Chicago ex-saloon keeper charged with prohibition law violation.

Grossman's conviction, Judge Landis said, resulted from testimony of six witnesses who said he sold whiskey. The court added a charge of contempt of court.

The committee was confused as to how Grossman's conviction showed on the records as being for contempt of court.

"The contempt of court was charged," Judge Landis said, "because Grossman continued to run a saloon after a restraining order had been issued to stop him."

Although the judge insisted there were six witnesses to Grossman's convictions, Senator Wheeler cited a department of justice representation to President Coolidge that but one witness had testified.

Criticized Pardon.
The activities of Fred Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, Homer Galpin, Cook county chairman and others of political power, were to be criticized, Judge Landis said, in the Grossman case.

Asked whether he meant to criticize the exercise of executive authority in the case, the judge replied that he "couldn't understand how Grossman ever got his pardon."

"If you want to call that attitude criticism," he added, "I guess I'll have to let it stand."

He was pointed out that C. W. Middlekauff, special assistant attorney general in Chicago, recommended Grossman's pardon.

"I think Middlekauff talked to me," Judge Landis said, "and said the evidence against Grossman should not have been depended upon, because of one of the witnesses was not credible."

"I told him to remember that if Grossman got pardoned, the other fellows convicted on the same evidence should be gotten out, too. You know you don't get a Sunday school convention in these liquor cases."

Talk Liquor, Bobbed Hair.
He was asked about the liquor situation in Chicago.

"You can't go to a dinner party," he said, "where the talk isn't for ten minutes about the Volstead law, and fifty minutes about bobbed hair."

When Chairman Brookhart pushed a query "about dinner parties," the witness responded:

"You are asking me to violate the laws of hospitality now. I'll confess I'm not a total abstainer. If you talked to me about a law that would let people serve stuff to guests in their home, well, I might fall for that."

Then as an after-thought he went on:

"I'm most impressed with the hair. The hostess always comes up and says to try this, because it's a little that's left over from the old days. They seem honest."

BIG CONVENTION COMING TO THIS CITY THIS YEAR
One of the biggest conventions to come to Dixon in recent years is insured by the signing up by the Assembly Park board and the Blue Bird hotel, for the meeting here of the Swedish Baptist Young People's meeting at the park. They will be here about 500 strong for ten days immediately following the annual Chautauqua at the park.

Representatives of the organization recently came to Dixon to look over the ground and facilities for a convention of the kind and were enthusiastic over the local situation. They consider Dixon and Assembly Park a "find."

The program for the thirty-seventh annual Rock River Assembly Chautauqua has been completed, and those who have seen the list of attractions announce it will be the best in recent years.

FORD'S SECRETARY DENIES STORY TOLD BY JAMES R. MILLER

Says Man Never Represented Ford in His Shoals Projects.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 2.—The senate agriculture committee today sought from E. G. Liebold, Henry Ford's private secretary, an explanation of telegrams exchanged between him and James M. Miller who claimed to represent Ford's weekly newspaper, the Dearborn Independent, in Washington.

One telegram quoted President Coolidge as saying he was "trying to deliver Muscle Shoals" to Ford.

Major General C. C. Williams, chief of army ordnance, also was asked to testify on the merits of the Hooker-White-Atterbury proposal to lease Muscle Shoals for 50 years.

Liebold told the committee he did not know of any telegram having been sent by President Coolidge to Ford. He said he had received telegrams from Miller, but that Miller did not represent Ford and had volunteered information.

Chairman Norris read a telegram sent by Liebold to Miller asking Miller to send more information by telegram and adding that an interview would be arranged with Liebold at his Dearborn home. He also read the telegram sent by Miller quoting President Coolidge as saying he was "trying to deliver Muscle Shoals" to Ford.

Made Trip Unsolicited.
Miller, he said, came to Dearborn on his own account and he did not know whether he had an interview with Ford at that time.

Liebold read a letter dated Nov. 20, 1923 from Miller saying that if he represented newspapers here he would have access to sources of information and offering his services to the Dearborn Independent at $300 a month. He offered to keep Liebold informed under this arrangement.

"Don't you know that on Dec. 20, 1923 Mr. Ford had a telegram from the President of the United States?" Norris asked.

"I don't know. I can't recall now," Liebold replied.

The witness said there was no evidence that he had ever acted on any of Miller's information and read another letter to Miller which said no arrangement could be made with a contributor except on the basis of articles used. Nothing had been paid Miller, he said, except for his work for the Independent. Miller, he insisted, paid his own expenses for the trip to Dearborn.

Not Unfriendly to Coolidge.
Liebold told the committee that Ford had never had "any animosity toward President Coolidge" and when Chairman Norris asked the witness if he regarded Ford's newspaper article attacking the administration as "friendly to Coolidge" he replied that "he wouldn't say so."

"I don't want to subpoena Ford and I have no unfriendliness toward him," Chairman Norris remarked. "I ask you if you will take up with Ford when you get back and send to this committee any telegrams he may have received from any member of the cabinet."

Former Governor of Indiana Now Convict No. 17,746 at Atlanta

Warren T. McCray (left), then governor of Indiana, had spent a night in jail when this picture was taken. He had been convicted in federal court of using the mail to defraud, and was on his way to the state house to clean up details before resigning the governorship. McCray, in jail, slept on a cot, was awakened at 5 a. m. by a deputy sheriff and ate a jail breakfast of rice, bread, coffee and molasses.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Atlanta, Ga., May 2.—Two years ago Governor W. T. McCray was a distinguished visitor to Atlanta attending the southeastern fair here in charge of an exhibit of fine cattle from his Indiana farms. He departed with many blue ribbons.

Today he is just one of more than 2,000 inmates of the federal penitentiary.

Yesterday the great iron gates of the prison closed behind him. Inside he was bathed, assigned a cell and a regulation blue denim uniform—and became simply "Number 17,746."

Former Gov. McCray arrived here by train yesterday from Indianapolis with a large party of federal prisoners to begin serving a 10-year sentence for using the mails to defraud. A forced jovial mood to cover the nervous strain under which he was laboring, was apparent in the crowded station.

At the prison gates there were no formalities. He was received just as any ordinary prisoner is admitted and taken to his cell as soon as routine assignments were made.

His only statement was: "I will enter upon the new situation with courage and confidence, fully conscious of my innocence."

DIXON AVIATION FIELD TO OPEN COMING SUNDAY
Ethel Dare Engaged to Provide First Program of Stunts.

R. E. Lapham of Chicago arrived in Dixon yesterday and is completing plans for the formal opening of Dixon aviation field east of the city on the Lincoln Highway on Sunday. The service station at the field has been in operation for several days and will continue throughout the summer and fall.

Mr. Lapham has secured Miss Ethel Dare, who will appear Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a series of stunts in the air. Miss Dare appeared here several times last season and is quite well known among the patrons of the aviation field. She has been in the south and on the Pacific coast during the winter where she has added several new stunts to her program and will furnish some of these thrills here Sunday.

H. L. Burdick, who had charge of the flying field last season, will come to Dixon as soon as the weather permits and open his school in aviation. He and Mr. Lapham will be associated in the management of the field this season.

Richards Withdraws Resignation as One of Davis Cup Team
By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, May 2.—Definite assurance from tennis officials that he was eligible to represent the United States in 1924 and that he would be given the opportunity to present his side of the case under the player-writer rule after it becomes effective next year prompted Vincent Richards to withdraw his resignation as a member of the Davis Cup team yesterday.

He said he might not be able to play in the Olympic games because of the rulings of the Olympic committee against player-writers and because he had a contract with a news service to represent it at Paris. He asserted he had taken up newspaper work as a means of a livelihood and felt he should not be considered a professional if he was assigned to represent tennis matches and did so.

COOLIDGE SELECTS BUTLER TO BECOME COMMITTEE HEAD
To Direct Campaign of President After His Nomination.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 2.—Republican leaders in Washington saw today in President Coolidge's designation of William M. Butler of Boston, as his choice for the republican national chairmanship, an opportunity to give a running start to the party's presidential campaign.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated that he regards his nomination as assured and sees no reason why there should be any delay in getting the campaign ready for its prompt inauguration immediately after the convention.

Mr. Butler likewise regards Mr. Coolidge's nomination as assured.

The selection of Mr. Butler as national chairman will not actually be made until after the Cleveland convention. The new chairman is elected by the new national committee members of which are chosen in some states by primaries and in others by the convention delegation. The new national committee, however, in its election of a chairman, always ratifies the choice of the presidential candidate.

Mr. Butler, henceforth, until the convention meets, probably will leave the pre-convention campaign largely to those who have been associated with him, chief of which have been C. Bascom Sloop, secretary to the president; J. W. Good, western manager; Carmi Thompson and Frank W. Stearns. He will devote his time to preparations for the contest with the democrats.

A corps of assistants is expected to be chosen by Mr. Butler. The retiring chairman, Mr. Adams, may be asked to sit in this body.

Announcement of Mr. Coolidge's preference for the national chairmanship removed another of the uncertainties of the republican campaign. One was removed a few days ago by selection of Representative Theodore E. Burton as temporary chairman of the convention.

Flocks of more than a hundred chickens have been taken late at night or early in the morning in the southwestern part of Ogle county.

In many instances, as was the case at the George Engle farm north of Dixon the first of this week, a majority of the birds have been killed in the poultry house, placed in sacks and then loaded into a waiting automobile. Many such cases have been reported to the sheriff's offices of both counties within the past two weeks.

The Wills-Dempsey match, Rickard believes, would attract more than $1,000,000.

CUPID AND CAMPASPE

Cupid and my Campaspe played
At cards for kisses; Cupid paid.
He stakes his quiver, bow and arrows,
His mothers doves, and team of sparrows,
Loses them too; then down he throws
The coral of his lippe, the rose
Growing on his cheek (but none knows how)
With these, the crystal of his brow,
And then the dimple of his chin;
All these did my Campaspe winne.
At last he set her both his eyes,
She won, and Cupid blind did rise
O Lovel has she done this to thee?
What shall, alas! become of mee?

—John Lyly.

TEACHER BOBBED HER HAIR; ASKED TO RESIGN POST

Belvidere Board Calls Her Action "Last Straw" in Case.

Belvidere.—That a school term is a closed season for bobbing on the part of teachers, has been unofficially promulgated by the Belvidere school authorities through the calling for the resignation of a high school teacher who suddenly appeared before her tresses trimmed close to her comely neck.

Not that bobs are to be barred from the teaching roster, but that the school term should mark no such radical change as to shatter the scholastic calm of the school room, appears to be the ruling of the local authorities, while the vacation period may be regarded as an open season for whatever devastating alterations modern flapperism may demand.

It is contended that the sudden bobbing of the school ma'am's locks created a season of serious unrest in the classroom and was in defiance of the well known attitude of the school heads on the matter.

It is also claimed that it was a "last straw" in relation to the teacher concerned.

Hamon's Widow Says Jake Wanted to Make His Son President

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, May 1.—The ambition of Jake Hamon, Oklahoma politician and oil man, was not to be secretary of the interior—it was to make his son, Jake, Jr., president of the United States. This was disclosed today by his widow on her return from Washington where she was summoned to testify before the Teapot Dome investigating committee and then was not asked to take the witness chair.

"He wanted to be nothing else but chairman of the republican national committee," Mrs. Hamon said on her arrival here from Washington. "I'll get it and I'll hold it for years until Jake, Jr., is old enough to take it over," he told me," she said. "Then I'll make him chairman in my place and let him hold it until he is wise enough and old enough, and when that time comes I'll make Jake, Jr., president—the youngest resident of the United States."

YOU SAY—BE CAREFUL WHAT
In speaking of a person's faults, pray don't forget your own; Remember those with homes of glass should seldom throw a stone. If we have nothing else to do But talk of those who sin, This better we commence at home, And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man Until he's fairly tried; Should we not like his company, We know that world is wide. Some may have faults—and who has not, The old as well as young? Perhaps we may, for aught we know, Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan, And find it works full well; To try my own defects to cure Before of others tell; And though I sometimes hope to be No worse than some I know, My own shortcomings led me let The faults of others go.

Then let us all, when we commence To slander friend or foe, Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know; Remember curses sometimes like Our chickens "roost at home," Don't speak of others' faults until We have none of our own. —Joseph Krontal.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Cleaning Vegetables.
Before cleaning vegetables spread a paper over your kitchen table. It is much easier to throw that away than it is to scrub the table.

Plant Disinfectant.
Clean soapy water is a good disinfectant and if poured on plants or around the roots often keeps a plant free from objectionable insects.

Dishwashing Device.
A small rubber hose connected with the water faucet over the kitchen sink makes a convenient dishwashing device.

Kitchen Table Height.
The best height for a kitchen table is one which keeps the worker's arms bent at a right angle at the elbow. Most tables are too low.

Careful of Tables.
If you use a glass top on your dining or kitchen table, be very careful about putting hot dishes on it because rapid expansion is apt to break it.

Cleaning Water Spots.
Clean water spots on waxed floors by rubbing in circles with turpentine and a flannel cloth.

Dust Sheets.
If you do not use a vacuum cleaner, it will pay you to have dust sheets to put over your furniture while sweeping.

AN INTERESTING MEETING IS PLANNED—

An interesting meeting is being planned by the Y. P. M. S. of the M. E. church for Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sheffield, 614 East Chamberlain street. Each lady is asked to take with her a box containing lunch for two which will be auctioned off for a small sum. Later a program will be given. There will be an election of officers held and the opening of the mite boxes.

Every member is urged to be present as this will be the last meeting of the year, with the exception of the picnic which will be held next month.

BOOK SERMON FOR MAY—

"The Man from Glengarry," will be used by Rev. Moore at the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock as the theme for the monthly book sermon.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY.
A Daily Menu for the Stout and Thin.
EAT AND—LOSE WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, one thin crisp slice braided bacon, 1 cup fruit salad, 1 cup lamb en casserole, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons rhubarb tapioca pudding, two pieces crisp unbuttered whole wheat toast, 2 pieces gluten bread, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.
Total calories, 1056. Protein, 221; fat, 313; carbohydrate, 522. Iron, .0189 gram.

Lamb en Casserole.
Three pounds neck of lamb, 3 carrots, 4 onions, 2 cups canned tomato, 2 tablespoons drippings, two tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon celery pepper.

Wipe meat and remove any thin papery skin covering the meat. Cut meat in inch and one-half cubes. Add drippings in frying pan, add meat and sear on all sides. Sift over flour and stir until flour, meat and fat are perfectly blended. Add water, bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly and let boil two minutes. Turn into casserole, add carrots, scraped and sliced, onions peeled and sliced and tomatoes and seasonings. Cook in a slow oven for about two hours. This is just as good cooked in an iron stewing kettle on top of the stove but of course can't be served from oven to table, so to speak, as when cooked in the casserole. This will serve six persons.

Total calories, 3628. Protein, 1032; fat, 2339; carbohydrate, 257. Iron, .0311 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, two tablespoons creamed potatoes, two slices broiled bacon, 1 fried egg, 1 cup cream of spinach soup, 1 cup fruit salad with 4 tablespoons whipped cream dressing, 1 cup lamb en casserole, 4 tablespoons steamed rice, 1 cup shredded cabbage with 1 tablespoon chopped nuts and 2 tablespoons French dressing, 4 tablespoons rhubarb tapioca pudding with 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 2 bran muffins with raisins, 2 slices whole wheat bread, 1 bran roll, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk, 4 tablespoons chocolate bread pudding with 1 tablespoon hard sauce.

Total calories, 3892. Protein, 394; fat, 1746; carbohydrate, 1752. Iron, .019 gram.

The egg is fried carefully in the bacon fat. Have the fat hot, but not smoking. Drop the egg into the fat and reduce the heat. Cover and cook slowly from three to five minutes. An egg fried this way is not tough and leathery, but tender and firm and most appetizing. The fat adhering to it adds a few calories.

Lamb is said to contain less of the so-called "prints" so inimical to gout and rheumatism than the other meats. It is easy to digest and deserves a prominent place on the spring menu. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

BETTER FROM A DISTANCE.

One of the largest cities in Florida has "tipped off" its local bands and orchestra never to play "Home, Sweet Home." The idea is to avoid anything that might make a tourist homesick and start him and his pocketbook back over the road by which they arrived.

The whole town has fallen in line behind the city boomers, and anything glorifying "home, sweet home" or "the old home town" is frowned on. Everything possible is done to make tourists stay as long as possible, spending their money. Every effort is put forth to make new residents feel that home is where they are now.

On the surface, this soft-pedal on home stuff may seem like keen psychology. But it isn't and for the very simple reason that most of the sentiment about the old home town and the homestead of long ago is hokum.

People talk by the hour, reminiscing about the old home town. They paint it in bright colors, giving it glories that never existed.

They will do anything except go back there to live. And, after all, this is the real test.

When a man or woman effervesces about the old home town, they have in mind the place as it was years ago, not as it is now.

In memory it is bright, surrounded by recollections of loyal friends, loved ones, happy experiences, tender associations. But all those are gone. You realize it when you return to the old home town, wander about a few hours, and find nobody is able to "place you."

So it also with the home of long ago. No price would be too great, to turn back the clock and live over the old days with father, mother, brother, sister, old-time sweet-hearts and pals.

But as for the actual house—would you trade your present home for the inconveniences of that place in memory? All very fine to talk about and worship. But the home back yonder didn't have electric lights, washing machines, gas stoves, a flivver and the thousand and one other semi-luxuries of today.

The Florida city is needlessly alarmed. We will fight for the old home town and for the home that housed us long ago. But as for moving back there—well, that's another matter.

The people who never left the scene of your childhood are happy. They have escaped the tragedy that befalls the ex-resident who returns after long absence and has his illusions tumbled in ruins about him.

THE ILLINOIS SMALLPOX DECISION.

There is much discussion in Illinois of the recent decision by the State Supreme Court that school children may not be compelled to be vaccinated. The decision was returned in the case of L. G. Burroughs, Jr., vs. Peter Mortensen, formerly superintendent of schools, Chicago.

The point in the Chicago case was the exclusion from school of an unvaccinated child, who refused to be vaccinated. The court ruled that Superintendent Mortensen, who had authorized the exclusion, was without authority so to do, even though the action was advised by the Chicago health commissioner.

Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, Illinois state health director, in a statement to the press, takes the view that the significance of the decision is "purely local in character." "It merely emphasizes the fact," he says, "consistently set forth in previous decisions of the Supreme Court, that Illinois law makers have never delegated to municipalities the authority to clothe an individual local health officer with power except through a local board of health or through a local commission form of government. Chicago has neither of these conditions so that the health commissioner there, as such, has no legal power in quarantine matters except insofar as he is specifically authorized to act as an agent of the state department of public health."

Director Rawlings maintains that any legally constituted board of education, on the advice of the local board of health has the legitimate power to exclude from the public schools, in the face of an impending epidemic, all unvaccinated children "who have been exposed to small pox and refused to be vaccinated."

Dr. Rawlings says the court decision has thrown a number of down-state health officials into a quandary.

PLANT A TREE.

It is tree planting time. And, reminded of the fact, why not a thought for Joyce Kilmer's lines?

"I think I shall never see
A poem, as lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast.
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast.
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts her leafy arms to pray.
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."

SLAVE.

The mail brings a circular picturing a scoop or conveyor by which "one man can unload and store a car load of coal in an hour and a half, at a cost of from three to seven cents a ton."

If you were in the coal business and were given your choice of having one of these scoops or the ancient strong man, fiereules, you'd pick the scoop.

Machinery is the slave of all of us. It displaces human labor, releasing workers for the making of other things, thus gradually raising the standard of living. When we reach a scale of living that satisfies we can begin working fewer hours a day, all of us.

MASTERS.

The horse and cow have existed on earth 10 times as long as man, according to Dr. Mather of Denison University.

It makes us wonder why horses and cows aren't ruling us instead of vice versa, provided the scientists are correct in their claim that man in his original state had no more intelligence than other beasts.

But man had curiosity, the force that develops the mind. Answer Willie's questions patiently. The more questions he asks, the more potential intelligence he has waiting to be developed.

SOUTHWARD.

Gary, the steel king, is back from a three-months' trip through South America. He predicts a tremendous future for the southern continent, but says it's growth will be slow because it is handicapped by lack of capital to develop natural resources.

This is universal law, the necessity for working capital. And it applies as rigidly to the individual. Young men, are you saving dollars that later will work for you just as you now work for them?

But there are no bills in the dead letter office.

TOM SIMS SAYS

A Virginia boy who thought he could rob a man and get away with it will be 50 before he gets away, according to a judge.

If you don't believe the ant is a model of industry just try to keep them out of the sugar.

A great many fishermen would play golf if you had to sit on the bank and wait for a golf ball.

A man is known by the bill collectors he keeps knocking at his door.

It only takes one to start a fight and that is always the other one.

Sense is what gets you by when you don't know anything.

The funniest thing on earth is a woman who doesn't use perfume talking with a man who does.

No matter how free a man is with his money when he drops a nickel he slaps his foot on it.

What tickles a man more than finding a quarter in the pockets of his old last summer's suit?

The only place you can enjoy the railroad fare is in a diner, and that costs about a dollar a mile.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

NO. 17—JACK THE GIANT KILLER

"What kind of a kite do you fly?" he asked

The magic automobile with Nancy and Nick and Mister Muggs, the fairy-man, sped through Once-Upon-A-Time land at about a hundred miles an hour.

It passed seven castles and seven moats and came at last to the place where Jack the Giant Killer lived.

Jack was out flying a kite, but when he saw the visitors he wound up the string and came over.

He was extra glad to see Nick. "What kind of a kite do you fly?" he asked when he had said "How do you do."

"Mine is a red parrot," said Nick. "But I like this kind better. Next time I'm going to get one like it."

"I'd like to have a box kite," answered Jack. "You know what they are like, don't you?"

"I know a man," put in Mister Muggs, "who has a box kite, and he takes pictures with it. He has a camera fixed to it some way, and when he wants to take the picture of a mountain top or something very high, he sends up the kite and then pulls a string, and that works the camera and the picture is taken."

"All this time nobody thought of a giant," said Jack.

"Some day when I'm a man," declared Jack, "I am going to have an airplane. I'm going to learn to do nose dives and tail spins, and how to bank, and how to loop the loop, and if there's a war I'll chase the enemy. What are you going to do when you're a man, Nick?"

"Mebbe I'll be a soldier or a policeman or an conductor. Or else I'll build houses and bridges."

"I'd like to lead a band and throw up a big stick and catch it," said Jack. "I'd like to wear a tall fur hat with a strap under my chin, and a red jacket all covered with gold braid."

And still nobody thought of so much as mentioning a giant.

"When I grow up I'm going to wear a pink-spangled dress and jump out of a balloon," said Nancy, although nobody had asked her what she was going to do. If girls want any notice they have to speak up for themselves.

"I've thought of that, too," said Jack. "But I'll have a little parachute on my lapel and I can jump out and come down whenever I want to."

"We'll have to be going now," said Mister Muggs. "It's a long way back and time is flying."

And then Nick remembered. "Did you really kill any giants?" he asked suddenly.

"Seven," said Jack, as though he were speaking of autos or something. "Oh, say, can you play base ball? I wish you could stay."

Protestant Priests Urge Reunion of Catholic Faiths

Philadelphia, Pa., May 1.—Reunion of Anglican Catholic Roman Catholic faiths, separated since the time of Henry VIII, was advocated last night at the convention of Protestant Episcopal priests. The meeting closed today with a high mass at St. Clements church.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. H. Barry, rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York, advanced three bases on which a reunion might be sought, while Bishop Irving P. Johnson, of Colorado, emphasized the fact that Anglicans and Romans have the same sacraments, creeds, scriptures and ministry. The Rev. Dr. George C. Stewart, rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston, Illinois, deplored the divisions in the church as "a scandal and a sin" and discussed the problem of reunion.

Court Upholds State Re-Route of Paved Road

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—Authority of the department of public works and buildings to re-route proposed boulevard hard roads was upheld by the Appellate court here today, in reversing and remanding a decision of the Sangamon County Circuit court, which held the re-routing of route 2, between Bloomington and Clinton unwarranted.

Action against the state department was started by James Green and other taxpayers of Wapella and Clinton, who alleged the route had been so re-planned that it missed Wapella by half a mile. They further alleged that the change from the original route which coincided with the Meridian trail, would cost an additional $200,000.

Meeting these arguments the court, with Justice Heard dissenting, today held that there is no allegation in the petition that the department did not fully inspect, investigate, and consider fully the advantages and disadvantages of these two routes, nor that the petitioners were not given full and free opportunity to be heard before the decision was rendered. There are no facts, the decision states, which show the selection was not the result of honest judgment of the deliberation.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

Jack was silent a moment after he had made the comment on modern women, and then he asked:

"I wonder if it has made for greater happiness?"

"Not for the man, Jack," I answered quickly, "because his will be finds is not now supreme. Woman has grown into something more than a possession. She must have a voice in her own life, and its direction."

With one of those sudden changes that always surprise me in Jack he said with a laugh:

"Well, I'll have to be very careful how I treat you, my lady. I would probably find you more implacable than Harry has Ruth. Come on, let's go and see the kid."

Little Jack had been asleep when Harry came home to dinner, and he had not seen the baby since his return.

Is there anything more beautiful than a sleeping child? Its innocence, its helplessness, and its potentialities appeal to you most at that time.

Jack bent over the bed and laid his hand softly upon little Jack's damp curls. The baby stirred a bit in his sleep, then opened his eyes wide, and I swear a look of recognition came into his eyes.

He raised his little arms uncertainly; then they fell back and he dropped asleep again.

Jack turned to me and threw his arms about me.

"I am the happiest man in all the world, my dear."

"I am glad you did not say 'person' because you could not be happier than I am tonight, Jack."

After this bit of sentiment we began as married people often do, to talk plans for the next few days.

"I don't just know, Jack," I said, "how we are going to make excuses to your mother."

"Why, we'll just have to tell the truth, Leslie. You didn't know that you would be called to New York when you telegraphed her to come."

I'm quite sure that she will be content—at least she should be content with the baby and me until you return.

"You won't be gone long, will you, dear? For you know I'm going to be very busy at the office, and you know mother has never gotten over the idea that you should come first, even before business. I shall have to be home for meals very promptly, for mother has never been able to understand that anything in my life should come before her."

"That's another thing we women have changed," I said. "We do not make the question of prompt meals such a fetish as our mothers used to, and we are not so jealous of a man's business. We understand that after all, marriage is a business, and as a partner in it, we must work for the interests of all concerned."

"Good Lord, Leslie, are you getting strong minded?"

I raised my lips to John's. After a long kiss, I murmured, "Do you think so?"

WALTER JOHNSON STOPPED YANKEES AFTER 8 STRAIGHT

Washington Star Master of Champions in 3 to 2 Contest.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

The iron arm of Walter Johnson spiked the bats of the Yankees yesterday and the world's champions lost to Washington 3-2 after winning eight straight games. Detroit was beaten by St. Louis 8-7 and the first place remained unbroken in the American League.

Young Wayland Dean, John McGraw's pleasant dream from the American Association, pitching his third clever game and his second victory of the season beat Boston 9-1 and kept the Giants in front of the National parade by two full games.

Johnson held the Yank sluggers to two blows in six innings and gave way to Mayberry after Ward and Scott tripled in the seventh. The youngster held the one run advantage by effective work in the pinches. Menzel failed twice with the winning runs waiting.

Tigers are Beaten

Detroit fell before three St. Louis home runs which accounted for seven of the Brown tallies. Ken Williams and Tobin hit for the circuit with two on.

Pitcher Shante of the Indians muffed the third out in the first inning before being retired and Chicago turned the error into four runs. Cleveland could not overcome the lead and the White Sox won 13-7.

Rommel of the Athletics, one of the steadiest pitchers in the American League this season, was driven from the mound by the Red Sox who won 5-1 with Quinn pitching.

The pitching arm of Mays and May, of Cincinnati, suffered serious losses from a batting lead by the Chicago Cubs who included two base hits, a triple and Hartnett's homer among 17 hits that resulted in an 8-1 victory. Albridge was in good form.

Pittsburgh bunched hits in two innings with Carey getting four, and defeating St. Louis 8-6. Brooklyn, with Stock again leading the attack, made its hits off four Philly pitchers and won 10-4. Cy Williams got his 2nd homer.

Caray Swiped Couple. Max Carey, speedy outfielder of the Pirates, ran his string of stolen bases to nine by swiping two against the Cardinals. In addition Max pounded out four hits and drew a pass in five trips to the plate, his work being a big factor in the Pirates' win.

Ernest Osborne, right hand pitcher who joined the Cubs two years ago, coming from Atlanta, has been awarded to Brooklyn via the waiver route.

Charley Jamieson, star left fielder of the Cleveland Indians, who has been out of the game because of an attack of grippe, returned to the game against the White Sox and smashed out two hits in five times at bat.

Ed Roush, Cincinnati Reds outfielder, who has been out of the game since April 20, resumed his place in centerfield against the Cubs, but retired after making one hit in two times at bat.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Springfield, Ill., May 1.—The request of Martin J. O'Brien, chairman of the Cook County democratic managing committee, that Governor Small call a special election June 2 for two vacancies in Cook county courts, was answered by the governor today, in a challenge to Mr. O'Brien to show by what authority you assume to be chairman of the committee.

In his ultimatum the governor asked the democratic leader "when the committee was elected? was it elected on April 8, 1924 as the law contemplates? If not then elected, when was it elected and who are its members?"

"Are the members of that committee the same men who agreed to withdraw any opposition to the nomination of Attorney General Brundage for the supreme court bench in return for two democratic nominees for the county court vacancies?"

"I would like to ask your committee if it will consent that the democratic party of Cook county go on record in favor of standing with the governor in a demand for legislation that he will make to the next general assembly that will put all judges of all courts under the operation of the direct primary law so that the people may have a real voice in the selection of those who sit in judgment on their personal and property rights?"

N. Y. Democrats in Harmony on Smith Boom for President

New York, May 1.—The unity of the New York democratic organization in its boom of Governor Al Smith for president is demonstrated by Tammany's cordial reception of the appointment of Franklin D. Roosevelt to the democratic nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt was democratic candidate for vice president at the last election and for a time was active against Tammany. He has been a close friend of the governor since 1911.

Acting upon his assertion that the principal work of the state committee will be "to show to the other states, the real Governor Smith as we know him," Mr. Roosevelt announced he soon would organize the state committee.

JAP QUESTION IS IN PRIMARY IN CALIFORNIA

Coolidge's Delay in Signing Measure Used as Issue.

San Francisco, Cal., May 1.—Tuesday's primary in California has assumed a greater significance than any contest between individuals as a result of the pending Japanese exclusion measure. Lieutenant Governor Young declared.

"For years this state has been alive to the perils of Japanese immigration."

"Suddenly, out of a clear sky, comes a declaration by the Japanese ambassador so nearly like a threat that to preserve our national dignity congress passes an exclusion act."

"This exclusion act should have received the immediate signature of the president. But he delays until after May the 6th, the day of California's primaries."

"If Californians, through carelessness seem to endorse the action of the president, they will have themselves alone to thank if a veto of Japanese exclusion is the result and Californians' wonderful opportunity is gone, perhaps forever."

Several important items of business having to do with summer work of the ministers such as Colony appointments, etc., are to be considered. The address of the session will be delivered by the president of the association, the Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore, pastor of the Methodist Church, on the subject: "What Current Books and Magazines Should Pastors Read?" Ministers and other religious workers residing in the vicinity of Dixon are welcome to the meetings of the association.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The front door of the Baptist church is open to all who desire to join in a restful service during the Sabbath morning hour. "Starving does not pay. The East Penn Conference of the United Evangelical church has just closed one of the most successful conferences in its history. The local church was represented by J. U. Weyant, the conference being held at Reading, Pa. The statistical report shows progress in all departments of the church. A number of young men were licensed to preach the gospel, two were ordained deacons, and three elders. The outlook is very promising.

Our Communion service last Lord's day morning, because of the down-pour of rain, was not largely attended; but we had a fine service, receiving a number of members and had a splendid offering for benevolence. "A quarter ahead," is a good motto, and we are ready for the first quarter of the 1924-1925 synodical year. It's fine and much easier as well as doubly helpful to the interests dependent on our benevolent offerings to be forwarded. Besides, "God honors those who honor him."

IRON WORKERS STRIKE

More than 3,000 iron workers went on strike today at a closed shop and a wage of $12 for an 8-hour day instead of $10.50.

Charles Murphy, business agent of the Manhattan Local of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, said all union construction in Manhattan, Brooklyn and northern New Jersey was at a standstill.

The strike marred what was expected to be a May Day of complete industrial peace.

IMPROVE GARAGE SITE

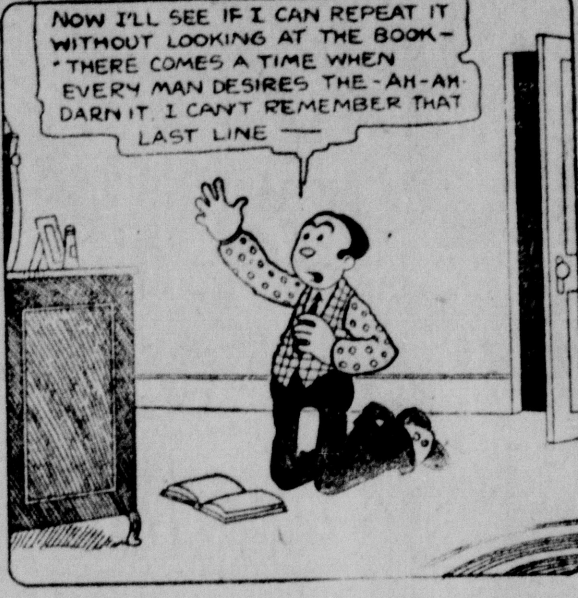

The owners of the Kline and Newman garage and service station have had a cement walk built along the west side of the building extending from the corner of Commercial Alley north to the main sidewalk at River street. This is the first sidewalk that has graced the east side of Ottawa Avenue and adds materially to the appearance of the new garage building. A parkway has been left between the walk and the building which will be planted with shrubs and flowers.

PHASES OF WORLD PEACE

SUNDAY EVE., MAY 4TH
"World Peace or Paganism" is the theme of the pastor of the Amboy M. E. church next Sunday evening. This time is a timely subject for it is not without significance that today politicians in campaigns denounce foreign entanglements but when elected favor a world court. Our government refused to recognize assemblies of the League of Nations and yet sends "unofficial" observers who speak with seeming authority. Why is it? What should be the attitude of a Christian? Public invited?

Matches, formerly a state monopoly in France, are to be made by a private firm in return for a large "royalty" to the French government.

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

by RUDY AYRES

© NEA SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proves an unhappy one. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly under the care of Mary Furnival. Nigel is killed and Dolly marries an old sweetheart named Robert Durham. Dolly and Robert sail for America and word comes of the sinking of their ship.

When Nigel's brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for his brother's wife and asks her to come to live at Red Grange with him and his aunt. David and his aunt welcome Mary when she comes to Red Grange. Mary tells the aunt, Miss Varney, that nobody else loved Nigel as Mary loved him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I think I understand; and I think you would if you had seen David as I did late that night—the first night we came back here. I heard a sound along the corridor, and I came out of my room to see what it was, and there was David going down to the picture gallery. I followed him, and I found him standing in front of the portrait of Nigel, and his face—oh, you wouldn't have said he didn't care any more if you had seen his face as I did!"

Mary said nothing. There was a seeping pulse in her throat that seemed to be choking her, but she tried to smile, meeting the elder woman's wistful gaze.

"I suppose we don't all feel things in the same way," she said brokenly. "It's just that, isn't it?" She rose to her feet with a little weary gesture. "I wonder if I might go to bed?" she said, half apologetically. "I feel so tired. Would you think it very rude of me?"

Miss Varney rose at once. She blamed herself for her thoughtlessness.

"Poor child! Of course you are tired!"

She went up to the girl's room with her. She kissed her most affectionately as she said good night.

"Sleep well, my dear, and try and believe that there is plenty of sunshine in life for you still."

Mary smiled rather quiveringly.

"I'll try," she said.

But when the door had shut on Miss Varney's kindly face, she went over to the window and looked drearily out into the darkness.

There was no moon and no stars, but the wind was waving the dark branches of the trees, and sighing restlessly.

And Mary thought of the woman and child who had been driven out into that very road by the relentless hand of the Bretherton they had deceived, to meet death, and a little shiver shook her.

CHAPTER XXV

At The Red Grange

MARY FURNIVAL woke the next morning to find Miss Varney at her bedside; she started up with a little exclamation.

"Is it very late? Oh, I am so sorry!"

She glanced apprehensively at the little clock on the mantelpiece; it pointed to ten.

A distressed flush colored her cheeks.

"Oh, I am sorry! I had no idea it was so late. I never sleep on like this."

Miss Varney laughed.

"I am glad you have, my dear; you looked worn out last night; I told them not to disturb you. Have you had a good night?"

Mary looked rueful.

"Much too good, I'm afraid. I will get up at once."

"They're bringing your breakfast up to you. The fire has been lit already, you see; it shows how soundly you slept."

"It seems impossible!"

Mary had been so sure that she would not be able to sleep at all, and now for nearly twelve hours she had slept dreamlessly.

A smiling maid brought her breakfast, and set it on a small table close to the fire. It was all most daintily served; the little towel was silver; the tray cloth of fine linen, embroidered with the Bretherton crest.

Mary looked at everything with a sort of awe. She had been used to such plain homeliness all her life.

There was something luxurious and delightful in this new daintiness of surroundings.

She enjoyed her meal thoroughly; she felt new energy and anticipation thrilling her as she dressed. The dullness of yesterday had gone; the sun was shining; sparrows twittered to each other in the ivy that covered the face of the old house.

She went down the wide staircase wondering what the day would bring forth. In the hall she met David Bretherton; he stopped when he saw her, and held out his hand.

"Aunt Florence tells me that you have broken the record for a long sleep," he said, smiling. "I hope you feel all the better for it."

"She flushed a little."

"I am afraid you must all think me horribly lazy; I am always up so early as a rule. And on such a fine morning, too!"

"Would you like to go out? I am just going round the gardens; will you come with me?"

"I should love to," she was all eagerness to see the well-remembered places; she would rather revisit them with David than anyone, seeing that she could never walk there again with his brother.

A momentary wave of sadness swept through her heart as she went back upstairs for a hat and coat. It seemed, somehow, a mockery to be glad that the sun shone, and that she should be here at Red Grange, when one remembered that lonely grave somewhere in France, and the horrors that were daily being enacted there.

But one cannot be altogether sad when the sun is shining, and before she had gone far with David she found herself chatting and talking with him almost happily.

"Aren't you very proud of your beautiful home? I think it must be wonderful to know that you are one of a family who has lived here for generations and generations; that it all belongs to you—"

"I am proud of it, even though I shall probably be the last Bretherton to live here."

She looked up startled.

"What do you mean?"

"Only that now Nigel is gone there will be nobody to carry on the name."

"But you will marry?"

He shook his head.

"It's not very probable; I'm not the sort of man women care for, even if I wished them to." He smiled, looking down at her.

"Oh, but you mustn't think that," she told him impulsively. "It's only just that you haven't met the right woman yet; some day she will come along, and then—"

"Yes, and then?" he echoed.

"Well, then, all the world will seem changed and different; you will wonder how ever you managed to live without her."

His grave eyes searched her face. "Is that how one feels when one is in love?"

She looked up, and quickly away again.

"Oh, I—"

"I have been talking nonsense," she said distressfully.

They had reached the end of the path skirting the lawn, and David held open a little gate leading to a kitchen garden and paddock beyond.

"If it is nonsense, it's very charming nonsense," he said, smiling. "You make me feel that I have missed a great deal by being a bachelor."

She shook her head.

"You don't mean that; it isn't all roses when you care for a person very much."

"Not even when they care very much for you in return?"

"But sometimes they don't," she told him. "And then—"

She broke off, wondering if he realized what her words conveyed, but he made no comment, and they walked on silently.

Once she stopped to speak to one of the gardeners; the man glanced at Mary and touched his cap respectfully.

"This is Mr. Nigel's widow," said David.

He did not look at Mary as he spoke, or he might have seen the sudden pallor that drove the color from her face; she turned abruptly and walked a step away.

When David rejoined her, "Smithers knows Nigel when we were both little boys," he explained. "He was here on the estate as a lad in my father's time."

She did not answer; she was beginning to realize with a sort of horror what her deception really meant. It was a continually acted lie. She was proposing to live, day after day, taking the respect and attentions due to another—robbing the dead—robbing the dead.

CHAPTER XXVI

A Difficult Path

HE took her down to the stables, and showed her the loft where he and Nigel had played as children; he showed her the step-ladder staircase down which Nigel had once fallen on the last day of the holidays.

"He cut his forehead badly—I dare say you have seen the scar—but I don't think he minded, as it meant an extra week at home. He always hated school."

"Yes, I know," she answered vaguely. She was wondering what would happen if suddenly she stopped, turned to this man, and said:

"I am not Nigel's widow. I was never his wife. I have no right here at all. I am just deceiving you all along."

She went to the door of the stables, and stood looking across the sunny garden with eyes that saw nothing. David came to stand beside her; there was a sort of compassion in his face.

"I hope you will be happy here—with us," he said. "I hope you will believe that I am anxious to be your friend. If there is anything troubling you, I wish you would tell me, and let me help you."

His voice sounded kind and sincere; there was nothing but earnest sincerity in his eyes; for a moment she longed to take him at his word, and make a clean breast of the whole miserable story, but something prevented her; she even forced herself to laugh a little, though the tears rushed to her eyes.

"You are very kind; I will not forget. But—but there isn't anything troubling me—there isn't anything at all."

And now she was no longer looking at him. She moved out into the yard again as if to prevent further conversation.

Railroads Have to Carry Freight Long Way to Pay Expense

Chicago.—To earn enough money to buy a pint of ink an American railroad has to haul a ton of freight 48 miles, declared Dr. David Friday, director of research of the National Transportation Institute, in a report on railroad earnings made public here at headquarters of the Institute.

"To buy a cross tie," the report says, "a railroad has to haul a ton of freight 75 miles, to purchase a hand lantern 105 miles, to replace a freight car wheel 1347 miles, a month wrench 115 miles. To pay for a day's work of a freight train crew a ton of freight must be hauled 3350 miles. A day's work of a machinist must be paid for by a haul of 534 miles."

"Average compensation paid each railroad employee in 1923 was $1,488, to pay which it was necessary to haul one ton of freight 133,441 miles; or more than five miles the distance around the world. The railroads of the United States delivered last year approximately 7,565,000.000 ton miles per week. This is equal to hauling an average freight train of forty cars more than 441 times around the world every week."

"The railroads are the largest single industry in the United States," the report states, "but they manufacture and sell only two articles; freight-ton-miles and passenger-miles. Cost of railroad supplies has gone up 100 per cent since 1913 but freight rates have only been increased 55.1 per cent and passenger rates 50.2 per cent."
